

The nine Universal Laws

A practical guide to harmonious life

Christophe Genty

The Nine Universal Laws

A Practical Guide to Harmonious Life

Christophe Genty

2023

This work is protected by copyright and is strictly reserved for the private use of the customer. Any reproduction or distribution for the benefit of third parties, whether free or paid, of all or part of this work, is strictly prohibited and constitutes an infringement provided for by articles L 335-2 and following of the Intellectual Property Code. The publisher reserves the right to pursue any infringement of its intellectual property rights before civil or criminal jurisdictions.

© 2023

Table of Contents

Introduction

Foreword

⇒ Part I : General presentation

- What exactly is a universal law?
- Why study universal laws?
- The consequences of neglecting the laws
- Another book on universal laws?
- What are the 9 universal laws?
- The CIAM Method
- The Three Worlds
- Links between the nine laws and the nine numbers
- Links between the Three Worlds and the nine laws

⇒ Part II : The Nine Universal Laws

A. The three constitutive laws

- Law of Unity
- Law of Polarity
- Ternary Law

B. The three human laws

- Law of Intention
- Law of Attraction
- Law of Analogy

C. The three natural laws

- ⊙ L Law of Cycles
- ⊙ Law of Cause and Effect
- ⊙ Law of Transmutation
- Practical Memo to Integrate the Universal Laws into Your Daily Life
- Interactions and Interdependence of Laws

⇒ Part III : Numbers and Symbols Associated with the 9 Universal Laws

- Unity, duality, and trinity
- Symbols associated with the 9 laws
 - ✧ Symbol associated with the Law of Unity: the pointed circle
 - ✧ Symbols associated with the law of polarity
 - The Yin Yang symbol
 - The Vesica Piscis
 - The diameter
 - ✧ ✧ Symbols associated with the ternary law
 - The triangle
 - The Triquetra
 - ✧ Symbols associated with the law of intention
 - The tetrahedron
 - The four-branched cross
 - The square
 - ✧ Symbols associated with the law of attraction
 - The pentagram

The Templar cross

The pyramid

✧ Symbols associated with the law of analogy

The hexagram

The hexagon

The octahedron

The six-branched cross

✧ Symbols associated with the law of cycles

The centered hexagram

The Seed of Life

The centered hexagon

✧ Symbols associated with the law of cause and effect

The eight-spoked wheel

The cube of life

The octagram

✧ Symbols associated with the law of transmutation

The enneagram

The centered octagram

The squaring

Conclusion

Appendix : exploration of laws in different domains

Laws & Religion

Laws & Biblical Quotes

Laws & Philosophy

Laws & Science

Laws & Psychology

Laws & Combat Sports

Latin Maxims

... Pages 8 to 22 ...

The CIAM method

In our quest to live in harmony with the universal laws that underpin the fabric of our reality, here is a four-step method to integrate these powerful principles into our everyday life.

It all starts with Awareness: the first step invites us to immerse ourselves in the Knowledge of the universal laws, to study them and to grasp their foundations.

Once this basis is established, the second step encourages us to Identify their presence in the three worlds that surround us - the spiritual, the human, and the physical. To do this, we will illustrate each law with an example on each plane.

From there, we embark on a process of Alignment and integration. We adjust our actions and thoughts in accordance with the laws, following specific advice related to each principle to create deeper coherence.

Finally, the fourth step underscores the importance of continuous practice and Memorization facilitated by numbers and symbols. The application of the universal laws is a constant journey, requiring patience, regular reflection, and open-mindedness to welcome them into the multiple facets of our existence.

This fourth step does not appear at the end of each law because its content has been grouped into a separate part (see Part III) dedicated to memorization through numbers and symbols.

▷ Step 1 - Awareness - Knowledge - C

The first step is to become aware of the universal laws by studying and understanding them. Take the time to learn about each of them, explore their fundamental principles, and their implications in your life. Some of these laws even warrant an entire book on their own.

The goal here is not only to inventory the universal laws but rather to propose a cross-cutting, multi-disciplinary reading in order to bring out the correspondences that exist between totally different disciplines and thus, make the reader feel the deep inter-connection between the laws and the Whole.

▷ Step 2 - Personal Observation - Identification of the presence of laws in the Three Worlds - I

Once you have acquired a basic understanding of the universal laws, start observing their presence in your everyday life. Be attentive to the manifestations of these laws in the three worlds: the spiritual world, the human world, and the physical world.

To assist you, we have identified, for each law, an example in each of the three worlds.

▷ Step 3 - Advice - Alignment and Integration - A

After observing the effects of the universal laws in your life, work on aligning yourself with these laws. Identify aspects of your life that could benefit from an adjustment based on these laws.

Put into practice the specific advice associated with each law to create a deeper alignment with them. Be open to adapting and adjusting your approach based on the challenges and experiences you encounter. Integrating the universal laws into your life is a continuous and evolving process, requiring regular practice and open-mindedness.

▷ Step 4 - Continuous Practice - Memorization using Numbers and Symbols - M

Applying the universal laws in your daily life is an ongoing endeavor. Get into the habit of regularly reflecting on how you can better integrate them into your existence.

To assist you in your approach, numbers and symbols act as visual and conceptual anchors that will facilitate your retention of the universal laws, transforming them into tangible and recognizable elements.

With this approach, the laws become more than just an abundance of abstract ideas; they take shape under the representation of specific numbers and visual symbols, making it easier for them to be integrated into our memory and understanding.

Likewise, the symbols associated with each law provide a visual representation that instantly evokes the underlying concepts. These symbols help us intuitively connect with the key ideas of each law, thereby strengthening our emotional and intellectual connection with their essence.

In short, memorizing the universal laws through numbers and symbols simplifies their integration into our daily life. This allows us to tap into a reservoir of mental images and numerical landmarks to guide us on our journey towards the conscious application of these laws in all aspects of our existence.

Part III is devoted to this aspect.

The Three World

The Three Worlds refer to a concept present in various spiritual and esoteric traditions, emphasizing the existence of three planes or levels of reality. This classification into Three Worlds following the ternary God, Man, and the Universe has existed since man sought to organize his ideas according to a classificatory procedure. We also speak of the Spiritual or Divine World, the Human World, and the Natural or Physical World.

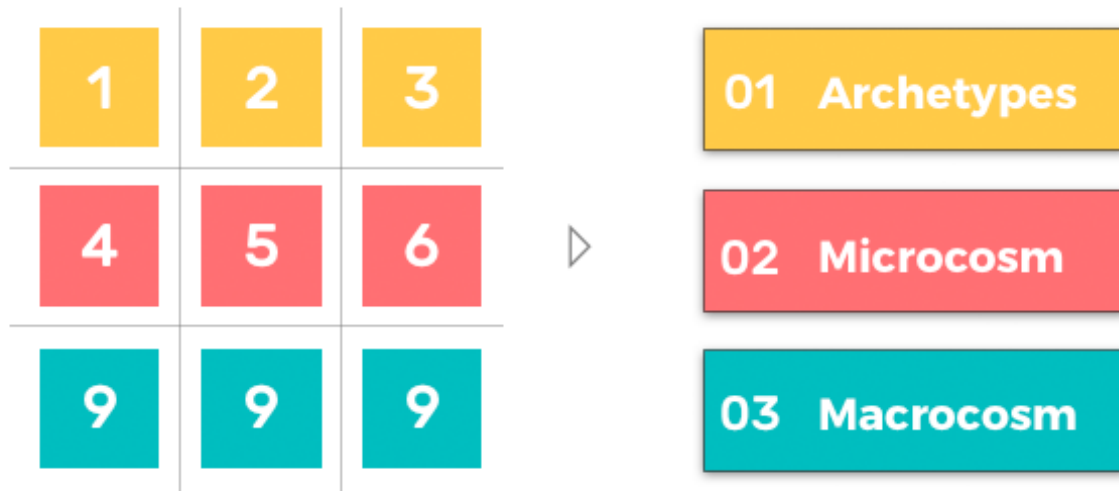

Pythagoras considered the Universe as a Whole animated by the intelligence of numbers. It was he who first designated this Whole with the Greek word Kosmos, to express the beauty, order, and regularity that prevail there.

The Latins translated this word into Mundus, from which we made the French word Monde (World). It is from Unity, considered as the principle of the world, that the name Univers (Universe) that we give it is derived.

Pythagoras described the Three Worlds through the following terms:

- ▷ World of Archetypes (which later became the World of Ideas with Plato); associated with numbers 1, 2, and 3;
- ▷ Microcosm, or the small world, Man; associated with numbers 4, 5, and 6;
- ▷ Macrocosm, the great world, the Universe; associated with numbers 7, 8, and 9.

The nine numbers and the Three Worlds

Man is considered in this vision as a "microcosm" or Small Universe and has within himself the same organizing structure as the Universe, the "Macrocosm."

« The Universe conceived as an animated whole is composed of three principles which are: Nature, Man, and God, or, to use the language of the hermetists, the Macrocosm, the Microcosm, and the Archetype. »

Papus ~ Elementary Treatise of Occult Science »

Link between the nine laws and the nine numbers

Associating the universal laws with the first 9 numbers proves to be a powerful trick for understanding and memorizing them more easily. Each number can act as a symbol or a key to open the door to understanding the law associated with it.

The matrix of the nine numbers

« Nature is a mirror, a vast program of cryptograms where vertical series and horizontal strata are ordered and correspond. »

Proclus ~ Elements of Theology

Respecting the order of the laws is important as it allows us to follow a logical progression in our learning and our integration of these fundamental principles. Each law, building on the one before it, thus forges a coherent path in our exploration of wisdom and knowledge.

By associating laws with numbers, we can better remember and apply them in our daily lives. For example, we can relate the law of unity to the number 1, symbolizing the beginning and uniqueness of the divine source. The law of polarity can be associated with number 2, representing complementary opposites and balance, etc.

By respecting the order of the laws and associating them with numbers, we can move forward on the path of knowledge and spiritual evolution with clarity and coherence. It is a way of making these universal laws more accessible and concrete, allowing us to handle them wisely and discerningly to create a fulfilling life aligned with the forces of the universe.

The evolution of the matrix towards the tree allows the study of the number from a dynamic point of view. This presentation mode allows a better visualization of the relationships uniting the first nine numbers and the Three Worlds.

Microcosm and Macrocosm

Man, as a "microcosm", must necessarily participate in the "three worlds" and have within him elements that respectively correspond to them; and, in fact, the same general ternary division is also applicable to him.

In the schema, the intermediate place that Man occupies between the Spiritual World, that of the Spirit, and the Natural World, that of Matter, is clearly distinguished. Given his ternary constitution, identical to that of God and Nature, he participates in both:

- through his Spirit with the Spiritual World (number 4)
- through his Body with the Physical World (number 6)

- between the two is his Soul, the center of the Human or Psychological World (number 5).

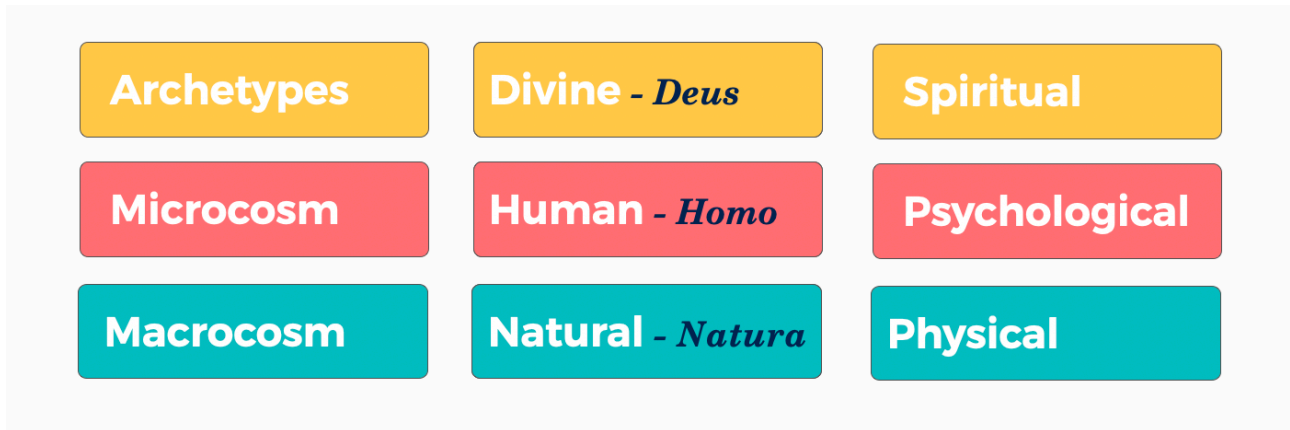

« Man thus manifests himself as a thinking, feeling, and acting being; he thinks with his intellect, he feels with his heart, he acts with his will.

The ideal of the intellect is wisdom,
that of the heart is love,
and that of the will is power. »

Omraam Mikhaël Aïvanhov

Connexion between the Three Worlds and the nine Laws

The Three Worlds

These three worlds are generally described as follows:

▷ The Divine or Spiritual World:

The first world is that of the divine or spiritual, also called the upper world. It is the world of Ideas, the realm of archetypes, universal principles that shape the universe, the source of all creation. It is the domain of unity, unconditional love, eternal wisdom, and transcendent truth.

In religious traditions, this world is often associated with God, angels, deities, and spiritual guides. It is the realm of invisible realities, where divine laws govern the universe and where souls seek enlightenment and union with the divine.

▷ The Human or Soul World:

The Human World represents the individual who thinks, feels, and acts. It is the domain of the conscious Self. The Spirit directs, orders, and enlightens. Through thought (4), it serves to know, to understand, to orient, but it cannot act on matter if the heart (5) does not get involved.

The Soul is the passage point between spirit and matter. There mental alchemy takes place, the process of transmutation.

Thoughts (4) transform into feelings (5) and influence the organs of the Will (6): eyes, speech, and hands.

It thus appears that the soul is an intermediary, a link between the physical world and the world of the spirit; it is the vehicle that transports elements from heaven to earth and from earth to heaven.

▷ The Physical or Material World:

The third world is that of matter and the physical, also called the lower world. It is the realm of material manifestation, physical forms, natural laws, and the cycles of nature. In this world, matter comes to life, stars shine in the sky, oceans rage, flowers bloom, and living creatures evolve.

It is the world of action, where human beings' intentions and emotions take shape and manifest in physical reality. It is also the place where souls have the opportunity to learn and grow through their material experiences. The physical world provides souls the opportunity to incarnate, develop their consciousness, transcend the limits of matter, and explore the mysteries of the universe.

The Three Worlds interact and are interconnected, forming a coherent whole. Understanding these three levels of reality can allow Man to explore his own spiritual nature and find his sacred place in the universe while respecting the laws governing these worlds and pursuing his spiritual evolution.

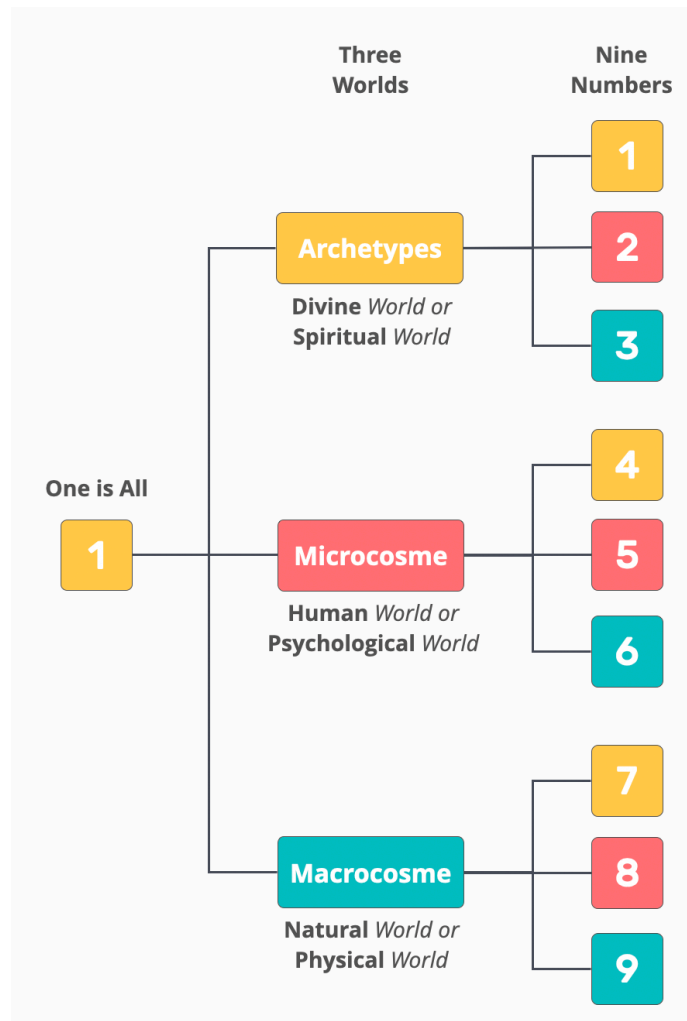

In search of meaning, in this vast universe that surrounds you, you may sometimes wander, desperately seeking landmarks to understand the profound meaning of life. At the heart of this quest, I invite you to discover the secrets of the Universal Laws that govern all existence.

« The Universe, considered as a great Whole animated, composed of intelligence, soul, and body, was called Pan in Phanès. Man, or the microcosm, was composed in the same way, but inversely, of body, soul, and intelligence; and each of these three parts was in turn considered under three modifications, so that the ternary reigning in the whole, also reigned in the smallest of its subdivisions. »

The Golden Verses of Pythagoras ~ Antoine Fabre d'Olivet.

The three worlds and the nine laws

This gradation based on the number Three (Ternary Law) plays a significant role in ancient science. It is upon it that the field of analogy (sixth law) is largely founded.

- Law of Unity (1)
- Law of Polarity (2)
- Ternary Law (3)
- Law of Intention (4)
- Law of Attraction (5)
- Law of Analogy (6)
- Law of Cycles (7)

- Law of Cause and Effect (8)
- Law of Transmutation (9)

... Pages 37 to 39 ...

⇒ Part II : The nine universal laws

A. The three constitutives laws

The primordial world

- Law of unity: universal interconnection
- Law of Polarity: complementary dualities
- Ternary Law: the creative spark

... Pages 41 to 81 ...

B. The three human laws

The dynamic world

- Law of Intention : the guiding force
- Law of Attraction : magnetic resonance
- Law of Correspondences : the cosmic mirror

Law of Intention

Definition

Law of Intention : Thoughts, intentions, and emotions have vibrational frequencies that influence reality and what surrounds us.

Our intention is a powerful force shaping our reality. The energy we emit through our thoughts and emotions creates vibrational waves that attract experiences and circumstances in resonance with our inner states.

This law encourages us to be mindful of our thoughts and emotions, to cultivate positive and benevolent intentions, as they significantly shape our reality.

Law of intention in the three worlds

▷ On a spiritual level: alignment with the Self

The law of intention, on the spiritual plane, refers to the intrinsic power of our thoughts and deep desires to influence and shape our reality. Intention is the bridge between our individual consciousness and the universal order, and it plays a central role in our spiritual quest.

The power of prayer is a manifest example of this law. When we pray, we channel our thoughts, emotions, and desires towards a specific intention. It's not simply the act of asking that is powerful, but rather the concentrated and sincere energy behind that request. A sincere prayer creates a resonance, connecting the individual to forces greater than himself.

Alignment with divine will is another crucial aspect. For our intentions to manifest in the most harmonious and beneficial way, they must be aligned with a higher will or order. This doesn't necessarily mean submitting to an external force, but rather recognizing and harmonizing with the natural flow of the universe, with its laws and principles. An intention that is in accord with this divine will not only has a higher chance of coming to fruition, but it will do so in a way that is beneficial for all.

Conscious awakening is the process through which we become more aware of our intentions, their origin, and their implications. By developing increased consciousness, we are better able to direct our intentions in a positive and constructive manner. It is awakening that allows us to see the gap between our superficial desires and our deeper intentions, guiding us towards a more aligned and meaningful life.

In summary, the law of intention reminds us that our thoughts and desires have real power. By aligning them with higher spiritual principles and awakening our consciousness, we can navigate life with clear direction and profound purpose.

▷ On a human level: maximum energy on minimum space

The law of intention, when viewed from the perspective of human experience, hinges on the power of our aspirations and determinations to shape our actions and, by extension, our reality. It reminds us that where we consciously place our attention becomes the driver of our actions and the direction of our path.

Focus is the first pillar of this law on the human scale. When we focus on something, whether it's a goal, a dream, or even a simple meditation object, we amplify its energy in our life. For instance, an athlete who focuses on training and victory channels his energy toward that specific goal. Our thoughts, emotions, and actions focus and converge towards this focal point, making it more accessible and achievable.

Alignment invokes the idea that our intentions need to be harmonized not only with our personal aspirations but also with the larger realities of our human existence: our relationships, our responsibilities, our communities, and our overall well-being. When our intentions are aligned with these aspects, they become more powerful and effective. For example, an intention to help others is more powerful when it is aligned with the actual needs of the community.

Furthermore, this alignment also ensures that our intentions are not selfish or isolated, but that they contribute to a greater good. Alignment creates congruence between heart, mind, and action, allowing for smooth and harmonious manifestation of our desires.

In short, on the human plane, the law of intention revolves around the ability to consciously direct our attention and align our desires with the larger realities of our experience. It highlights the power of the individual to influence their life trajectory through the sheer force of their determination and vision.

▷ On a physical level: the power of symbols in visualization

The Law of Intention, in its application to the physical plane, is profoundly influenced by our abilities to visualize and give form to our thoughts. At the core of this law lies the idea that what we powerfully imagine in our mind can manifest in our material reality.

Positive visualization is a potent tool in this context. When we visualize something with precision and emotion, we send specific signals to our brain. These signals, in turn, trigger a series of chemical and physiological reactions in our body. For instance, visualizing a relaxing scenario can effectively reduce stress, lowering blood pressure and slowing heart rate.

This technique is not only psychological but deeply physical. Clearly and intensely imagining the achievement of a goal or the resolution of a situation can influence our behavior, guide our decisions, and even enhance our performances. An athlete, for example, may repeatedly visualize a perfect performance, reinforcing neuromuscular coordination and improving actual performance.

However, it is essential to understand that mere visualization without subsequent action is often insufficient. Positive visualization serves as a catalyst, preparing our body and mind to act in accordance with our intention. It creates a bridge between the immaterial – our thoughts and intentions – and the material – our actions in the real world.

Symbols, as powerful catalysts for memory, play an essential role in the Law of Intention. They function as mental markers, converting abstract concepts, intentions, or aspirations into simple, concrete visual representations. Where intentions can be fleeting or diffuse, a symbol condenses and crystallizes these energies into a form that can be easily recalled and recognized.

By using symbols in the context of the Law of Intention, we provide ourselves a tangible means to recall and reaffirm these intentions daily. For example, a pendant or a specific image might be used as a constant reminder of an intention or spiritual goal. Thus, whenever we encounter this symbol, it reactivates the associated intention in our mind, acting as a perpetual reminder and reinforcing our commitment to that intention.

In this context, symbols are not merely mnemonic shortcuts, but powerful tools that help anchor our intentions into everyday reality, thereby facilitating their realization.

An alignment ritual is a fundamental pillar in the quest for intentionality and deep connection to our inner aspirations. The act of standing still, silent, and aligned, for instance, is much more than just a posture. It is a means to refocus the mind, clarify thought, and establish a tangible connection with the present moment and our profound intention. In a world where tumult and distraction are common, these rituals become oases of calm and focus. By adopting a stationary posture, we put an end, even if momentarily, to external chaos. Silence allows us to listen inwardly, to hear our deepest thoughts, feelings, and desires. And alignment is harmonizing with our essence, our goals, and the universe around us. By combining these three elements into a ritual, we create a sacred space, a timeless moment that allows us to recharge, refocus, and intensify our intention. These rituals thus become essential tools for navigating life with intention and clarity.

The power of intention, supported by visualization, symbols, and rituals, offers us a path to transform our inner desires into tangible realities. It underlines our active role in shaping our reality, reminding us that even in a constantly evolving universe, we have a voice, an influence, a role to play. It is not just the force of thought, but the deliberate action that follows, that makes the difference. By understanding and honoring these tools, we are better equipped to navigate the complexity of our lives, recognizing that every moment offers an opportunity for intentionality, growth, and transformation. In this recognition, we find the very essence of our humanity, the infinite potential of what we can create and become.

Law of Intention & Alignment

The Law of Intention and the concept of alignment are closely linked and mutually reinforce each other in the field of spirituality and personal development. Understanding this relationship can help us fully harness their potential to create a life that is fulfilling and aligned with our deepest aspirations.

The Law of Intention stipulates that our thoughts, intentions, and emotions have vibrational frequencies that influence the reality around us. In other words, our internal states have the power to attract experiences and circumstances in harmony with their vibratory nature. If our intentions are positive, aligned with our values and authentic desires, they are more likely to manifest in our reality.

Alignment, on the other hand, pertains to the harmonization of our thoughts, emotions, and actions with our deepest values, goals, and true essence. When we are aligned, we act in coherence with our true identity, creating a congruence between what we feel, think, and do.

The relationship between the Law of Intention and alignment can be explained as follows:

- Clarity of Intention: For the Law of Intention to work effectively, it is essential to have clear and well-defined intentions. The more precise you are in your intentions, the more potent they are and likely to materialize. When you are aligned with your intentions, your actions are in accord with your goals, and this enhances the power of your intention.

- Emotion and Energy: Your emotions play a crucial role in activating the Law of Intention. If you feel intense and positive emotion towards your intentions, you generate a high vibrational energy that attracts similar experiences. Emotional alignment means that your emotions support your intentions rather than contradicting them.
- Congruence of Action: When your actions are in harmony with your intentions, you reinforce the energy behind them. Alignment in action involves taking concrete and consistent measures towards your intentions. Aligned actions bolster self-confidence and demonstrate your commitment to your goals.

In summary, the Law of Intention and alignment combine to create a powerful synergy. By having positive, clear, and well-defined intentions, and supporting them with aligned emotions, thoughts, and actions, you create a magnetic field of attraction that can draw experiences in tune with your aspirations. Alignment ensures that all facets of your being are in accord with your intentions, thereby amplifying their impact and facilitating their realization.

9 tips for daily Implementation

To integrate the Law of Intention into your daily life and manifest your aspirations, follow these simple steps:

1. Clarity of Intention: Clearly define your goals and aspirations. Be specific about what you want to create or achieve in different aspects of your life.
2. Inner Alignment: Ensure that your intentions are in harmony with your values and deepest desires. The more your intentions are aligned with your true essence, the more potent they will be.
3. Creative Visualization: Regularly visualize your intentions as already realized. Imagine every detail precisely and feel the positive emotions associated with their fulfillment.
4. Positive Affirmations: Use positive, affirming affirmations to reinforce your intentions. Repeat them with conviction to anchor your goals in your mind.
5. Belief in Yourself: Cultivate confidence in your ability to manifest your intentions. Avoid doubts and negative thoughts that might hinder your progress.
6. Letting Go: Once you have set your intentions, detach yourself from the specific outcome. Trust that the universe will respond in the best possible way.
7. Anticipated Gratitude: Thank the universe for the fulfillment of your intentions, as if it had already occurred. This anticipated gratitude creates space for forthcoming abundance.

8. Inner Listening: Stay attuned to your intuition and follow signs and synchronicities that might guide you towards the realization of your intentions.
9. Patience and Perseverance: Be patient and persevere in your commitment to your intentions. Sometimes results may take time to manifest, but your determination will play a key role in their realization.

By applying the Law of Intention, you learn to direct your attention and energy toward what you want to create in your life. Your intention is a powerful force that can shape your reality and guide you towards the fulfillment of your dreams.

Combining aligned actions with positive beliefs and elevated emotions, you enhance the power of your intention and open the path to infinite possibilities. Be open to receiving and experiencing the results of your intentions in a gratifying and fulfilling way.

Summary and conclusion

4.1 - Law of intention - Spiritual aspect: prayer

The law of intention on a spiritual level finds its expression through prayer. When we pray with clear and sincere intention, we activate a subtle force that interacts with the universe. Prayer becomes the means by which we formulate our desires and aspirations to a higher level of consciousness. Thus, prayer becomes a powerful act of co-creation with the divine, linking our will to the spiritual source that underpins all existence.

4.2 - Law of intention - Human aspect: the power the Mind

The law of intention is a powerful tool that highlights the power of the mind over our actions, emotions, and outcomes. By focusing on clear and positive intentions, our mind becomes the driver of our behavior, guiding us towards decisions and actions aligned with our aspirations. By becoming aware of this law on a human level, we become architects of our destiny, capable of transcending limits and realizing our highest potential.

4.3 - Law of intention - Physical aspect: active visualization

Visualization allows creating a clear and vivid mental image of what we desire to accomplish. It helps us stay focused on our goals, align our mind, soul, and body towards a clear and harmonious intention, making us conscious co-creators of our reality and offering us the possibility of shaping our future in a positive and fulfilling way.

Be the cause, not the consequence, of your life.

*

*

*

Everything begins with intention, that sacred spark that is born deep within your being. Your intention is like the nucleus around which reality forms. It is the seed of your desires, dreams, and aspirations.

Be clear and precise in your intentions. What do you truly want to create in your life? What are your dearest goals? Take time to delve deep into your heart and discover the true desires that animate you.

Nourish your intentions with love and conviction. Believe in their power to come true. When you fuel your intentions with positive energy and unwavering faith, you create a powerful magnetism that draws favorable circumstances towards you.

But remember, dear spirit, that intentions are not just passive thoughts. They must be supported by concrete actions. Take steps that are in harmony with your intentions. Act as if you have already accomplished what you desire. That is how you will bring your intentions to life.

Stay open to the universe's surprises. Sometimes, things will manifest in a way you could never have imagined. Be ready to follow the signs and synchronicities (law 6 of correspondence) that appear on your path. The universe is always in motion, and it wisely guides you towards the realization of your most authentic intentions.

But beware, young heart, of the quality of your intentions. Use them for the good of yourself and others. Be aware of the impact of your intentions on the world around you. Ensure they are in harmony with your highest good and that of others.

With the Law of Intention, you are the master of your destiny. Your thoughts, emotions, words, and actions are the craftspeople of your reality. Use them with wisdom and kindness to create the life you desire.

Nourish your intentions with love, act with determination, and be open to the universe's magic. You are the creator of your reality, and you have the power to sculpt your destiny with the Law of Intention as a guide. So, dive into the ocean of possibilities, and let your heart guide your steps towards the realization of your greatest dreams.

« We are what we think. All that we are arises with our thoughts.

With our thoughts, we make our world. »

Bouddha

... Pages 97 to 185 ...

Relationship between laws

M. WAINSTEIN

Interactions and Interdependence of Laws

The universal laws do not operate in isolation. On the contrary, they intertwine and mutually reinforce each other in a cosmic dance that reflects the interdependent nature of the universe. The interconnection of universal laws creates a coherent fabric that governs the fundamental aspects of the universe and life. By identifying the relationships between the laws through simple words, we provide a holistic and accessible perspective.

These keywords become anchoring points to understand and apply the laws in our daily life, thereby facilitating their integration. This approach allows us to quickly grasp how each law interacts with the others, forming a harmonious whole that guides our actions, choices, and reflections towards a more aligned and fulfilling existence.

Law of Unity (1) crossed with:

- ✓ Law of Polarity (2): Interconnection
- ✓ Ternary Law (3): Creation
- ✓ Law of Intention (4): Concentration
- ✓ Law of Attraction (5): Power
- ✓ Law of Analogy (6): Coherence
- ✓ Law of Cycles (7): Renewal
- ✓ Law of Cause and Effect (8): Emanation
- ✓ Law of Transmutation: Rebirth

Law of Polarity (2) crossed with:

... Pages 188 to 198 ...

1. 7-8: Law of Cycles (7) x Law of Cause and Effect/Karma (8):
Repetition.

The coupling of the Law of Cycles with the Law of Cause and Effect leads to repetition. Causes and their effects repeat in an endless cycle, guaranteeing history repeats until lessons are learned.

2. 7-9: Law of Cycles (7) x Law of Transmutation (9):
Maturation.

The blend of the Law of Cycles and the Law of Transmutation gives rise to maturation. Like fruit ripening on a tree, life's cycles lead to transformations, culminating in maturity and realization.

3. 8-9: Law of Karma (8) x Law of Transmutation (9):
Retribution.

When the Law of Karma (or Cause and Effect) intertwines with the Law of Transmutation, the concept of retribution comes to mind. All our actions, whether good or bad, undergo some form of return or reward. This law ensures each action eventually gets balanced by a proportionate response, but transmutation offers a hopeful perspective—the ability to change, grow, and transform our karma. So, although we might experience the outcomes of past deeds, we always possess the power to transcend and transform them for a brighter future.

↔ Part III : Numbers and Symbols
Associated with the Nine Universal Laws

Unity, Duality, and Trinity

Numbers have always played a key role in spiritual and mystical traditions throughout the ages, serving as symbols to represent larger realities. In particular, the numbers 1, 2, and 3 hold deep meanings that can be associated with the divine or spiritual realm, the process of Universal Creation, or universal archetypes.

Let's start by defining the links that bind the first three numbers. The relationships between unity, duality, and trinity are deeply interconnected and can be observed in various aspects of the universe and human life.

Unity and Duality: 1 = 2

Unity (law of unity) represents the idea of an original source, a universal consciousness, a single divine principle that underlies all creation. It's the state of existence where everything is unified and interconnected, forming a harmonious and indivisible whole.

Duality (law of polarity) emerges when Unity manifests in the material world. It's the notion of separation, contrast, and opposition between complementary elements, such as day and night, hot and cold, good and evil. Duality is an inherent feature of physical reality where things appear distinct and separate from one another.

... Pages 202 to 217 ...

Symbols Associated with the 9 Laws

We have just seen that by applying a ternary analogical reasoning to the first three numbers, we have already begun to lift part of the veil on the symbols associated with the nine universal laws.

Now, let's try to associate each universal law with a symbol from Sacred Geometry to enrich our understanding and connection with these fundamental laws. Therefore, we leave aside the "exotic" symbols, namely those not related to sacred geometry.

Sacred geometry is the study of geometric shapes found in nature and in the architecture of ancient cultures, considered as expressions of divine wisdom. It sort of constitutes the framework of our universe.

Representing the 9 laws using symbols provides powerful visualization and a deeper understanding of these universal principles. Symbols are visual shapes that transcend linguistic and cognitive barriers, thus allowing direct communication with our intuitive mind. By using symbols for each law, we create visual and emotional anchors that facilitate the memorization and practical application of these concepts in our daily life.

Each symbol can encapsulate the meaning and energy of its respective law, allowing individuals to connect more deeply with these abstract ideas. Symbols act as gateways to a broader understanding of reality and our place within it, facilitating meditation, reflection, and integration of these principles in our quest for personal and spiritual growth. Using symbols as tools for reminder and focus, we can immerse ourselves more in the universal laws and apply them concretely to live a more fulfilling and aligned life.

... Pages 220 to 242 ...

♀ Symbols Associated with the Law of Intention

The Tetrahedron

The tetrahedron, this geometric solid formed of four equilateral triangles, symbolizes the spirit of synthesis. It is a tri-unity that represents harmony in diversity, where the four faces unite to form a balanced whole. In the realm of intention, the spirit of synthesis invites us to integrate the various facets of our being within a unified vision.

1~4 - Connection between the law of unity and the law of intention

Concentration

Intense focus on one thing.

Intention crystallizes when it resonates with unity.

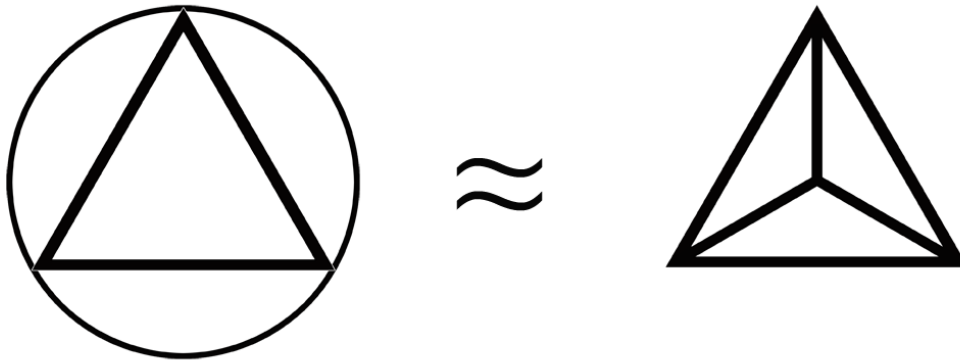

When intention is deeply connected to Unity, it emanates from an undeniable Force and reflects pure Truth. By tuning into this universal Unity, intention benefits from a cosmic dynamic that propels, nourishes, and gives it resonance. It is this harmony with Unity that bestows upon intention its true power and sincerity, allowing it to manifest with enhanced efficacy, aligned with Truth and supported by the universal Force.

The Spirit (4), in its quest for Unity (1), channels an inner Force that breathes life into Thoughts. It's this Force, when in harmony with universal Truth, that illuminates the Eyes, revealing the pure intention that resides within us. Thus, the Unity of Spirit, the Force of Thoughts, and the Truth perceived through the Eyes come together to create an authentic intention, aligned with the very essence of our being.

3~4 - Connection between the ternary law and the law of intention

Orientation

Inner alignment

The ternary law provides the structure, intention breathes life into it.

Intention, symbolized by the tetrahedron, must draw inspiration from the ternary, this primordial triangle, to find its true power. The ternary, with its three peaks, represents the trinity of forces that, when balanced, converge towards a unifying center. For intention to fully realize itself, it must borrow this wisdom from the ternary, seeking to focus its three distinct aspects towards a central point. It is in this center that 3 becomes 1, transforming the dispersed energy of the triangle into a concentrated and unified force, providing intention with its direction and power of manifestation.

The Four-Branched Cross

The four-branched cross, also known as the Latin cross, embodies the spirit of analysis. By connecting the four cardinal points, it evokes the need to explore each direction with precision and discernment. In the realm of intention, the spirit of analysis encourages us to examine every aspect of our intentions, understand their implications, and make enlightened decisions.

The Compass Rose

The compass rose is a figure indicating the cardinal points for two-dimensional orientation:

- N for north,
- S for south,
- E for east,
- W for west,

and intermediate orientations, up to 32 directions.

2~4 - Connection between the law of polarity and the law of intention

Vibration

Undulation of energy or motion.

From the polarity of the diameter to the universal cross, intention seeks balance.

Intention (Law 4), when set upon something or someone, does not act like a selective laser beam but rather as a magnet attracting the entirety of the entity targeted, including its polarities (Law 2). This law of polarity reminds us that by placing our attention and desire on an object or individual, we invite not only the desired aspects but also the less visible or potentially undesirable sides.

Therefore, when formulating an intention, it is crucial to recognize that we attract the full spectrum of the experience, shadow with the light, and to be ready to embrace and manage this duality. It is a reminder of the profound responsibility that comes with the power of intention.

When a person sets the intention to earn a lot of money, they attract not only wealth but also the complexities that come with it. While money can open doors and provide comfort, it also brings responsibilities, tensions, and moral dilemmas. Thus, aspiring to wealth implies embracing the full range of experiences, good or less good, that it can generate.

The Square

The square is composed of four equal sides and four right angles. Symbolizing stability and foundation, it represents the pragmatic spirit. It embodies the need to build on solid foundations, establish concrete plans, and act realistically to manifest our intentions in the material world. It is through the pragmatic spirit that we will anchor our dreams in reality.

The Tetrahedron, the cross, and the square are all three associated with the number 4, which represents the spirit in humans: synthetic, analytic, and pragmatic. It symbolizes the stable and determined foundation upon which the law of intention rests.

The law of intention is intrinsically linked to the power of the mind and thoughts because it stipulates that our deliberate intention serves as a catalyst to manifest our desires and aspirations. Thoughts nourish this intention, as it is through the mind that we visualize, plan, and believe in the realization of what we desire.

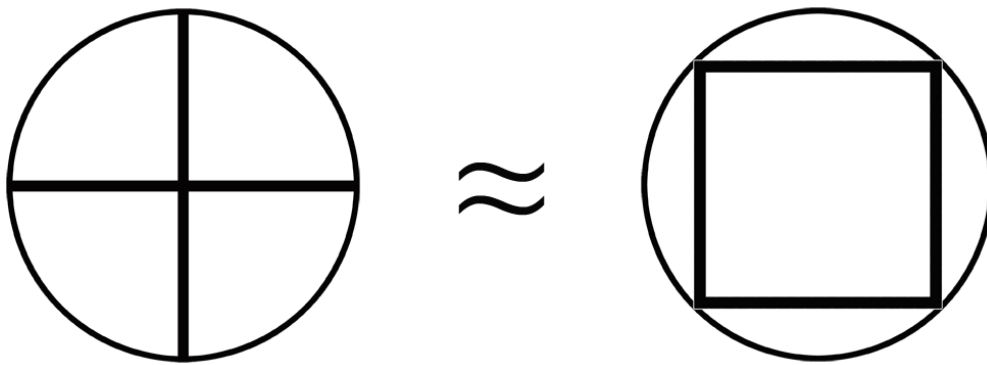

Choose the symbol that best corresponds to your intention:

- If your intention is intellectual, of a spiritual nature, focus on the tetrahedron.
- If your intention is emotional, of a psychological nature, focus on the cross.
- Finally, if your intention is material, of a physical nature, focus on the square.

4~4 - Internal Link to the Law of Intention

Conceptualization

Transforming ideas into clear concepts..

The cross is our compass, showing us the way;
the square, our promised land, marking our destination.

The intention evokes the transition from a four-branched cross to a square. The cross, with its four ends, symbolizes the diverging directions or aspirations we may have at a given moment. It is a representation of our scattered and sometimes contradictory desires.

However, when an intention is clearly defined and focused, it consolidates, just as the cross transforms into a solid and stable square. This square represents a crystallized intention, anchored in reality, ready to be materialized. It illustrates the power of deliberate intention which, when well defined, has the potential to build a solid foundation for our aspirations.

... Pages 254 to 355 ...